CONSTANTINOPLE, July 18.

ON the 5th an extraordinary Divan was held to conſider of the Meaſures to be taken with the Governors of Janina and Iconia. The former, who is named Iſhmael-Pacha, had Notice given him by his Friends nine or ten Months ago, that the Grand Signior had given private Orders to cut off his Head. He prevented the Execution of theſe Orders by a haſty Flight into Albania with a good Number of Dependents. But not thinking himſelf ſafe there, he afterwards took Refuge, with his Family and his Treaſure, in the Venetian Territories. It is uncertain whether the Ottoman Porte will reclaim him; the Reſolution of the Divan is not yet known. Mean while, two of his principal Officers, who did not chooſe to accompany him in his Flight, have been beheaded. With reſpect to the Baſhaw of Iconia, tho' he hath received three Summonſes, in the Name of his Sublime Highneſs, to repair hither, to give an Account of his Conduct, he has paid no regard to them. He is declared a Rebel, and has aſſembled 15 or 20,000 Men, with whoſe Aſſiſtance he lays the Countries adjoining to his Government under Contribution. His Rebellion may have very fatal Conſequences. [' A limited Government may, whenever it pleaſes, and without any Danger, relax its Springs. It is ſupported by its Laws, and by its own Force. But when a deſpotic Prince ceaſes one Moment to lift up his Arm, when he cannot inſtantly pull down thoſe whom he has entruſted with the higheſt Poſts and Employments, all is over: For as Fear, the Spring of this Government, no longer Subſiſts, the People are left without a Protector." Spirit of Laws, III. 9.]

IRELAND.

Dublin, Sept. 5. Letters Patent have been paſſed under the Great Seal of this Kingdom, containing a Grant of the Dignity of a Baronet, unto Booth Gore, of Artarmon in the County of Sligoe, Eſquire.

Amongſt the many princely and beautiful Improvements made by that public ſpirited Noblemen, Lord Powerſcourt, for the Entertainment of the People of Ireland, as well as of Foreigners, his Lordſhip hath made a broad Road, in as direct a Line as the Ground will admit, from his fine Seat at Powerſcourt to the Waterfall, by cutting down uſeleſs Underwoods, leaving fine old Trees and Clumps of them at proper Diſtances. Drains are cut through the low lands from the Park Gate to the Waterfall; near which Place there is a fine Octagon Room of twenty-five Feet in Diameter, and ſixteen high, built with Brick, plaiſtered and rough caſt on the Outſide: The Floor is Moſaic Work of different Colours, the Ceiling is Stucco, and the Top covered, with Straw. This elegant Room is ſo contrived, that there may be five Openings at once, or any leſs Number, having Windows arched to fill up theſe Vacancies from Top to Bottom, and Doors for the ſame, if neceſſary: Both which, by Springs, fly up and down with the greateſt Expedition. Within a few Yards of this Octagon, there is a very neat Kitcken of twelve feet Square, containing a large Grate, a handſome Jack, a Boiler, Stew-holes, and Oven, with all Neceſſaries for dreſſing Food; and, what is worthy of Notice, the Foundation and finiſhing theſe Buildings did not exceed five Weeks. His Lordſhip hath alſo erected a Wooden Bridge over the River near the ſaid Buildings, at a ſhort Diſtance from the ſtupendous Fall of Water, which is allowed by all Travellers to be the greateſt Cataract in Europe, and even ſuperior to any in the River Nile. From this Park to the Dargel, or Dark Glyn, which is about three Miles Diſtance, his Lordſhip, at a very great Expence, hath made very fine Roads to come at this moſt luxuriant Beauty in Nature, by cutting through Rocks, levelling Hills, and filling Hollows for Wheel-Carriages, which hath given the Public an Opportunity of Viewing, in different Proſpects, the moſt delightful, frightful, and ſurprizing Landſcapes in the World, which would have been imperceptible to all human Sight, and even Thought, had it not been for his Lordſhip's great Munificence, in finding out, and making Ways to this earthly Paradiſe, where ſtupendous Rocks are hanging over each other, and ſeveral others Perpendicular, with many full grown Oaks, Aſh, and Elm, interſperſed with Lauriſtinas, Myrtle, and Arbutas, Quicken Trees with Scarlet Berries, Holly, Ivy, and other Evergreens, many growing Horizontally out of the Sides of thoſe Rocks and others Perpendicularly on dreadful Precipices. To theſe great and ſurprizing Delights, his Lordſhip, from his great Benevolence and Humanity, hath cut circular Stairs and Alcoves, and placed Chairs and Tables at proper Diſtances in meandering Walks, thro' delightful Groves of aſcent and deſcent, with every Convenience for the curious Eye, and fatigued Traveller. On the Side of one of theſe Hills, there is an Hexagon Pavilion of about ſeventeen Feet Diameter, floored with red Tiles, the Roof covered with Sraw, ſupported by ſix Pillars of the Bodies of grown Trees, covered with natural Bark: Two Sides of which are lined with Moſs, and the other four open, from whence there are many rich and delightful Proſpects. Next to the Moſs in this ruſtic Building, are placed Benches to ſit on, Chairs in other Parts, and a Table in the Center, to reſt the weary, and regale the Hungry who bring their Food. Into this dark Glyn roll many Torrents of Water from the adjacent Hills, which, when united, make a conſiderable Body, gliding gently over Beds of Sand; then ruſhing furiouſly and ſuddenly over huge Stones and broken Rocks, foaming in great Cataracts and Caſcades, until ſpent in gentle, glittering Streams, meandering by delightful Iſlands covered with the fineſt Verdure, Woods, Shrubs and Flowers, gently gurgling thro' the Commons of Bray, under the Bridge, and then to the Sea, where the greateſt Rivers are ſwallowed up. Handel's grand Chorus in the Meſſiah, would have wonderous Effects at this Place, from Hills, Mountains, and Grottos. Lord Powerſcourt hath cauſed an excellent Inn to be built at Tynchinch, near the Dargel and the Deer Park, for the Accommodation of Travellers, ſituated in a moſt pleaſing Vale, with Proſpects of Hills, Dales, &c.

Clonmell, Sept. 15. Yeſterday was married here, one Patrick O Neil; he was born in the Year 1647, and is now married to his ſeventh Wife, who is of the Family of the O Conners; he was married to his firſt Wife Aug. 18, 1675; to his ſecond July 9, 1684; to his third May 4, 1689; to his fourth March 8, 1701; to his fifth June 5, 1720; and to his ſixth October 9, 1730. He inliſted for a Dragoon in the 17th Year of Charles II. and continued ſerving their ſucceſſive Majeſties till the Year 1740, when he was diſcharged, having been in all the Battles, Sieges, and Skirmiſhes with King William and the Duke of Marlborough. It is remarkable, that this Man never drank any thing ſtronger than plain Ale, never eat Meat but when he choſe to feaſt his Family, living moſtly on Vegetables, riſing and going to Bed with the Sun, unleſs his Duty prevented it; he is now in the 113th Year of his Age, in perfect Health, underſtanding Sound, and walks without the help of a Crutch or Stick: And though he has arrived to this incredible Stage of Life, he never knew an Hour's Illneſs, and goes on Sundays with his Children, Grand Children, and Great Grand Children, to this Pariſh Church.

The following is the Pruſſian Account (publiſhed at Magdebourg) of the Battle of Torgau, on the third of November, between the King of Pruſſia, and the Army of the Empire, under Count Daun, wrote by an Officer of Diſtinction, from his Camp at Belgarn.

THE 3d Inſt. the King brought M. Daun to a Battle by Stratagem. His Majeſty firſt cauſed the Enemy to be harraſſed by a few independent Battalions and Squadrons of Huſſars, whilſt Gen. Hulſen, with a Body of 10,000 Men, turned a Wood that lay on the Left of the Auſtrians, and took Poſt in that Spot, without being diſcovered by the Enemy. This General had poſitive Orders to attempt nothing more, till he ſhould hear our Cannon Roar; and the Prince of Wirtemberg was then to advance likewiſe with his Corps towards the Enemy's right Wing, and endeavour to get Poſſeſſion of the riſing Ground. In the mean while, our light Troops continued harraſſing the Auſtrians, and the Battalions and Squadrons, actually at Blows, having been ſucceſſively ſupported on both Sides, the Affair ſoon became general. One of our Independent Battalions having there maſtered one of the Enemy's Batteries, turned the Cannon againſt them; and as ſoon as Gen. Hulſen and the Prince of Wirtemberg heard the Report of the Artillery, they fell with great Impetuoſity, one upon the Left, and the other on the Right of the Auſtrian Army, whilſt the King with the reſt of the Troops, attacked it in Front.

M. Daun, ſeeing himſelf thereby forced to come to a Battle, made his greateſt Efforts againſt our left Wing, and ſmartly repulſed it; but General Zeithen haſtening thither upon full Gallop, with Part of the Cavalry of the Right, where there was not near ſo much Danger, he found Means to cut off the Communication of the Enemy's Horſe with their Intrenchments, and drove them into a narrow Spot, where they could not act without great Difficulty. The King no ſooner perceived this, than he rode up to his left Wing, and having rallied it, he not only fruſtrated Gen. Zeithen, but cauſed the Enemy to be attacked ſo vigorouſly on every Side, that our Infantry having forced their Intrenchments, cleared the Way for our Cavalry, who made a ſurprizing Slaughter. The Auſtrians then began to run. We purſued them till it was dark; but by Favour of the Night, they paſſed the Elbe, on three Bridges kept ready for that Purpoſe, and in the Paſſage they loſt a great many more Men. Their Loſs in killed and wounded may be eſtimated at about 7000, viz. 4000 ſlain in the Field of Battle, and the reſt loſt in the River. We have made about 10,000 Priſoners, among whom are the Generals Wallis, Angier, Ried, St. Ignon and Bathiani, with 300 other Officers. Marſhal Daun is wounded, and ſeveral other general Officers; and Gen. Waldner is among the ſlain.

The Trophies of our Victory are 21 Colours, 15 Standards, and many Pieces of Cannon. Our Loſs in the whole, reckoning the Wounded and Miſſing along with the Killed, may amount to between 4 and 5000 Men. Among the Dead are Gen. Finckenſtein, Lt. Col. Shwerin, the Count of Anhalt, and Major Zedinar. Among the Wounded we find the Margrave Charles, and the Generals Hulſen, Stutterheim and Syburg. The Generals Bulow and Aſſeburgh are miſſing.

The King's Breaſt was grazed by a Ball.

LONDON, October 20.

A few Weeks ſince died at his Houſe in Hoxton, Mr. Thompſon. He has bequeathed the Bulk of his Fortune, which was upwards of 30,000l. to an intimate Friend and Companion, and 10l. apiece to his poor Relations.

He was formerly a very conſiderable Velvet-Weaver in Spittalfields; he left a Legacy of 50l.

to a Servant Maid, who had lived with him for ſome Time, as a Reward for her Good-Behaviour. A few Hours before he died he called her to his Bed-ſide, and aſked her whether ſhe could be honeſt and keep a Secret? She replied in the Affirmative. He directed her, in caſe of his Deceaſe, to acquaint his Executors, that if they pulled down a Partition in ſuch a Room, they would there find his Wife's Wedding Gown, and a black Jack; the Girl ſtrictly followed the Injunction; on which the Executors ordered the Wainſcot to be pulled down, behind which they found the Gown, and a large Leathern Jack filled with Guineas; and, as a Compenſation for her Integrity, they generouſly added 50 l. to her Legacy, and gave her the Wedding Gown, and the major Part of the Houſhold Furniture of the Deceaſed.

Oct. 24. The Servant Maid, whoſe Fidelity to her Maſter, and Integrity to his Executors, has been already mentioned, was married to a Perukemaker at the above Place. Beſides the Things found before-mentioned, there was alſo diſcovered Mrs. Thompſon's Wedding Ring, which was likewiſe given to the Girl, and with which ſhe was married.

A few Days ago a whole Buck was ſent out of the Country, which for Expedition Sake, was ſent up with the Mail; by which Means the Poſtage amounted to upwards of 80 l. but the Perſon for whom it was intended, not chuſing to take it upon thoſe Terms, it became a Perquiſite to the Officers of the Poſt Office.

November 18. We hear the King's Civil Liſt is fixed at 800,000 l. per Annum, in Lieu of all Duties, &c. allowed his late Majeſty.

It's ſaid ſome great Alterations will be made in his Majeſty's Houſhold, in Relation to the Expences of Table-keeping, &c. by way of Example to the whole Kingdom.

The King of Pruſſia has made a Demand of 20,000 Recruits from Saxony, and the City of Leipſic is compelled to cloath them.

Letters from Frankfort of the 16th Inſtant ſay, That it was currently reported that divers Miniſters of the ſeveral Powers are ſoon to meet at Leipſic to ſettle the Preliminaries for a general Peace.

November 20. Yeſterday the Right Honourable the Houſe of Peers waited on his Majeſty at St. James's with their Addreſs.

The Dreadnought, Bailey, from Londonderry to New-York, is put back into Longhendall, with ſix Feet Water in her Hold, and is ſince Stranded.

Nov. 24. Laſt Wedneſday the Gentlemen who have engaged to ſupply the Government with the Loan of Twelve Millions for the Service of the enſuing Year, delivered in Liſts of their Friends, by which it appeared, that there was a much larger Sum ſubſcribed than the Twelve Millions; and we hear that a Depoſit of 15 per Cent. on the above Sum of Twelve Millions is to be made at the Bank in the Courſe of the third Week of next Month.

Some Letters from Hamburgh inſinuate, that if the French had ſucceeded in their Deſign of ſeizing Hamburgh, it was to have been given to the King of Denmark, to ſecure him in their Intereſt.

A Gentleman lately arrived from Hamburgh ſays, It was currently reported there, that a Scheme was on Foot for making a Winter's Campaign in Germany; and that ſeveral Veſſels had lately ſailed up the Weſer, with Proviſions and Forage for the Allied Army.

December 13. The GRAND EXPEDITION from Portſmouth is countermanded. Orders were ſent Yeſterday from the War-Office for the Troops to diſembark and march into Winter Quarters. Thus far may be depended on.—Some pretend, or rather conjecture, that this is occaſion'd by new Propoſals of Peace that are not inadmiſſible.

There are many Conjectures about this Fleet; 'tis generally ſaid to be countermanded till the Month of February; one Reaſon aſſigned for it is, and a very probable one, that the Campaign in Germany muſt be nearly at an End, on account of the Seaſon, the French might march a Body of Forces into their own Country, inſtead of ſtaying in Germany, in order to defeat the Enterpriſe of the Engliſh Fleet, and return in Time to join their grand Army before the Operations of another Campaign could be opened: On the other Hand, it is ſaid, that the French, finding our Court determined to puſh their Succeſſes, have made ſome freſh Overtures for bringing about a general Pacification, under the Mediation of his Catholic Majeſty, which ſeems to be ſomewhat attended to.

His Grace the Duke of Richmond has reſigned his Employment as Lord of the Bed-chamber to his Majeſty.

Five Companies are going to Jamaica. The eldeſt Captain is to be Captain Commandant, and Captain Weimys is going over Major of them.

One of our Portſmouth Correſpondents writes, that he believes the cauſe of the Expedition Fleet being countermanded, was the Sickneſs of the Troops and Horſes, the latter of which had for ſeveral Days refuſed all Kinds of Fodder; the length of Time they had been embarked, the tempeſtuous Weather they have had ever ſince, and riding at Anchor in ſuch a ſwelling Sea, might, had they continued a few Days longer, been attended with the Loſs of a great Number of the Troops, and all the Horſes. Such Numbers of Troops were Ill on board ſome Ships, that there was not a ſufficient Number of the Soldiery to attend their ſick Brethren, which Duty was moſt kindly performed by the Seamen.

December 18. The Amſterdam Gazette tells us, that at a Council of War held by his Pruſſian Majeſty on the Eve of the Battle of Torgau, he ſpoke to his Generals in the following Manner: "Gentlemen, I have called you together, not to aſk your Advice, but to tell you, that To-morrow I ſhall attack M. Daun. I know he is in a good Poſition, but it is alſo ſuch, that a Retreat is impracticable: If I beat him, moſt of his Army muſt be taken or periſh in the Elbe; if we are beat, we muſt all Die, and I the firſt. I am weary of this War, and you ought to be ſo too. To-morrow will decide it."

The Auſtrian Priſoners in the Hands of the Pruſſians, amount, according to ſome Accounts, to 36,000 Men; and the Pruſſians who are Priſoners to the Auſtrians, amount to 28,000. It is imagined an Exchange of Priſoners will ſoon take Place.

We learn from Magdebourg, that his Pruſſian Majeſty is at Leipſic, where it is thought he will receive Application for Peace. The Ruſſian Army is certainly retired into Poland. Our Troops have taken Poſſeſſion of Landſhut, and Gen. Linden is advanced with a ſtrong Corps to join the Allies, and oblige the French to retire out of Heſſe; which are ſo many indubitable Proofs that his Majeſty was victorious at Torgau.

Notwithſtanding all Reports to the contrary, we are aſſured, that the greateſt Harmony ſubſiſts among all his Majeſty's Miniſters.

It is now ſaid, that the Parliament will be diſſolved in March, and that the Coronation will be deferred till after the General Election is over.

It is ſaid, that his Majeſty, in Conſideration of the War with France, has forbid all French Wines of any Sort to be drank in the Palace, not even excepting his own Table. 'Tis calculated this will be a Saving of at leaſt 40,000 l. per Annum.

Dec. 27. It is reported, that the Right Hon. Arthur Onſlow, Eſq; Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, and the Hon. John Spencer, Eſq; will ſoon be called up to the Houſe of Peers; and that the Earls of Northumberland and Egremont, are to be created Dukes.——Eleven other Gentlemen are talked of, who are ſhortly to be raiſed to the Peerage.

Some of the Expedition Tranſports are ordered to be kept in Readineſs to receive Troops, as ſuppoſed, for Germany.

The Army of the Empire have entirely quitted Saxony, and ſuffered prodigiouſly in their Retreat.

Dec. 30. We hear that Books are opened at the Bank for receiving the Depoſit of 15 per Cent. which is to be paid on or before the third Day of January next on the Twelve Millions.

Several Engliſh Officers of Diſtinction arrived at the Hague the 20th Inſtant from the Army in Germany, and ſat out immediately for England.

They write from Dunkirk of the 14th Inſtant, that between there and Calais, ten Ships were wreck'd in a few Days; and that between Dunkirk and Graveling, an Engliſh Frigate of 40 Guns was loſt, and all the Crew periſh'd.

Extract of a Letter from Hamburgh, Dec. 20.

"The Talk of Peace is again renewed; ſanguine in their Expectations, the Friends to Humanity form Projects, and give them to the contending Powers. Alas! I fear the Flames of War have not yet got to a ſufficient Height; the Spirit with which they are raiſing Recruits in the Auſtrian and Pruſſian Dominions, is no Indication of a pacific Temper. Our Politicians, indeed, have given up one of the Sileſia's to the Empreſs Queen; but will the Pruſſian Monarch abide by their Deciſions? But, ſhould Neceſſity make theſe two Powers patch up a Peace, Who is to indemnify the King of Poland? Will the Ruſſians relinquiſh their Project of getting Footing in the Empire? Will the French ſubmit tamely to all their Loſſes? Believe me, that deſirable Event is far from taking Place; there is no Expectation of ſeeing the Spirit of Moderation introduced at the Court of Vienna; nor are we ſure that Ambition has not found a Reſidence at B-----; for my Part, I expect, at leaſt, one more bloody Campaign before Matters can be adjuſted, and even then Victory muſt declare on one Side or the other; Drawn Battles but inflame each Party, and give them a keener Appetite to eat each other's Throats; What horrid Work! From Rage and Ambition, my Friend, Good Lord deliver us."

Extract of a Letter from Portſmouth, Dec. 28.

"On Saturday ſailed into the Harbour to reſt, his Majeſty's Ships Firedrake and Blaſt; as did the Pluto Fireſhip.

"Our Artificers are very buſy in Sheathing the Tranſports, which are almoſt compleat: The Preparation here againſt the Spring (in Shipping) is very great, at which Time we ſhall have a prodigious Armament ready.

"At Spithead, Admiral Holbourne with 24 Ships of War."

Advices from Nuremberg ſay, that tho' the Armies are gone into Quarters of Cantonment, we muſt by no means look upon the Campaign as at an End.

A Letter from the Hague confirms the Account of the Death of Lord Downe, at Meurs, on the 9th Inſtant.

Moſt of the Letters from Germany agree, that Prince Ferdinand, on Account of the Badneſs of the Seaſon, had been obliged to raiſe the Blockade of Gottengen.

Some Letters from Saxony, mention, that a Convention is on the Carpet for a Suſpenſion of Hoſtilities between the Pruſſians and Auſtrians in Saxony during the Winter.

Dec. 31. The Waters of the Leck, in Holland, are ſo ſwelled, as to have roſe 58 Inches above the Mark at which they ring the Alarm Bell; but by draining the Dykes, they apprehend they are no longer in fear of an Inundation.

We have nothing but melancholy Accounts from the Netherlands, of Rivers overflowing their Banks; at Nimeguen they were obliged to go along the Streets in Boats, upon their neceſſary Occaſions. In the Province of Zutphen, they not only have Inundations to fear, but to compleat their Misfortune, the Sickneſs has again broke out among their Cattle.

It is ſaid, that if a Peace ſhould not take place before Summer, a Fleet of Forty Ships of the Line, under four Commanders, to form four different Squadrons along the Enemy's Coaſts, will certainly ſail, the utmoſt Diligence in the Equipment of which is now abſolutely making.

Dec. 30. Letters from Vienna of the 10th Inſtant, contradict thoſe of the 6th, and leave no Hopes of a Peace, unleſs the King of Pruſſia will grant the Empreſs Queen as much as might reaſonably be expected from him, if he had conſtantly been Beaten.

Our laſt Letters from Paris tell us, That in conſequence of the Reſolution lately taken to puſh the War chiefly, if not wholly, by Land, the Court propoſes to augment their Army in Germany to 200,000 Men; 140,000 under Marſhal Broglio, and 60,000 in the Lower Rhine under the Marquis de Caſtries.

The French Court were fully perſuaded that the Deſtination of our Expedition was for the Recovery of the Iſland of Minorca, and are actually preparing to ſend a conſiderable Reinforcement thither. It is alſo reported, that the whole Naval Force of France will ſail early in the Spring for Martinico, to prevent, if poſſible, the French from being expelled out of America.

January 1. Private Letters from Stockholm inform us, that the Government have made ſome Overtures for an Accommodation with the King of Pruſſia.

Notwithſtanding what has been ſaid to the contrary, we are well aſſured, that only 40 Men of the Troops embark'd for the Expedition were taken ill on Ship-board, and that no more than 7 died.

The Ceſar Tender with preſſed Men for Plymouth is loſt in Briſtol Channel, and 62 Men and 3 Women were drowned. The Lieut. and ſome of the Officers and Men were ſaved.

His Majeſty's Ships Venus and Juno, are deſtined to ſail in Search of the numerous Privateers that now infeſt the Channel.

The Swedes are flying before Prince Eugene of Wirtemberg, who has laid the whole Dutchy of Mecklenburgh under Contribution.

Letters from Italy by this Days Mail give an Account that the Plague has carried off conſiderably more than half the Inhabitants of Grand Cairo, the Capital of Egypt.

WHEREAS on Tueſday laſt between the Hours of Eight and Nine in the Evening, my Negro Servant was beſet, in the Road leading by the Pond Side, near the Governor's Garden, by three Ruffians, the firſt of which ſnatch'd his Hat off, and kicking the Lanthorn out of his Hand, ſtamp'd the ſame under Foot, whilſt another, without ſpeaking a Word, beat him very much with a ſtrong Hickory Cudgel, 'til it broke, and upon his running, purſu'd him cloſe to the Governor's Houſe, when they all immediately made off: The Perſon who firſt kick'd the Lanthorn out of his Hand, was a tall ſpare Man, and as well as could be diſcerned, the Colour of his Coat thought to be Blue, and with Leather Breeches; the other who beat him with the Stick, ſomething ſhorter, but it being very dark, the Colour of his Cloaths could not well be diſtinguiſh'd.
